This Conference will be a confluence of brilliant minds, providing an interactive platform to share path breaking ideas and case studies to address the need for sustainable water management faced by modern societies. I anticipate enlightening deliberations on various facets such as inter-basin water transfers, storage, intelligent decision support systems, climate change, legacy water rights, etc. Moreover, the Conference will showcase the latest products and services in this field through an Exhibition and also include a study tour.

I eagerly look forward to a very wide participation from India and abroad.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The growing pressure on water resources due to population growth, economic expansion, urbanization, pollution, and other challenges has a major impact on our social, economic, and environmental well-being. The effects of climate change are likely to aggravate the situation by causing higher frequency & magnitude of extreme weather events as well as by changing the quantum & pattern of precipitation. Water stress gets even more compounded for countries like India with disproportionately low freshwater resources vis-a-vis the population (4% of global freshwater resources against 18% of global population) and per capita surface storage of only 210 cubic metres even when most of its annual precipitation of 4000 BCM falls in just three months.

It is in this backdrop that the 2nd International Conference on Sustainable Water Management is being organized in collaboration with the Central Water Commission and the Central Board of Irrigation & Power, supported by the World Bank and sponsored by the Government of Maharashtra, Maharashtra Krishna Valley Development Corporation, Godavari Marathwada Irrigation Development Corporation, Vidharbha Irrigation Development Corporation, Tapi Irrigation Development Corporation and Konkan Irrigation Development Corporation. The Conference is organized under the aegis of the ongoing National Hydrology Project of the Ministry of Jal Shakti, Department of Water Resources, River Development and Ganga Rejuvenation.

The Conference will see the convergence of renowned water resources experts of academia, industry, utilities & research institutions and other related disciplines to brainstorm and deliberate on various aspects of sustainable water management, so that we can meet the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to satisfy their own water demands.

The Conference will provide an interactive platform for brainstorming and sharing new ideas and case studies with respect to flood and drought management, hydrology, e-flows, inter-basin water transfers, climate change, intelligent decision support systems, storage projects, etc. to address the pressing issues of sustainable water resources management.
